Eliminate Reading Barriers & Increase Equity With Government Relief Funding

Free resources to help you learn how to use ESF to expand access to books

New government relief funding is helping to meet today's challenges from COVID-19 and create tomorrow's brighter future. The $190 billion Education Stabilization Fund (ESF) is a once-in-a-generation opportunity for K-12 schools to champion literacy in their districts like never before.

And with educators' needs in mind, we've curated a variety of free resources to help you get the most out of this government funding. We'll help you learn how to use ESF to expand access — for every student — to the books you need through the Sora student reading app.

Our free ESF resources include:

- The Diversity for Literacy Collection can help you evaluate your digital library to make sure it's meeting the needs of all your students.
- The K-12 Funding Champion Toolkit has answers to frequently asked questions as well as proposal templates and success stories to help you increase access to reading.
- A Case Study How Massachusetts schools meet demand for digital with CARES Act funding
